Tex Harris told me on the phone that -- the GOA is taking steps to get its house in order in preparation for the visit of the IACHR in late May. They want to look good. Specifically, they're shifting PEN prisoners to

- collecting all the PEN prisoners in a few ~~few~~ prisons

- speeding up the processing of PEN prisoners. (This means charging them with something, so that they will come under the military or civilian courts; it doesn't mean, necessarily, that they'll be released. In at least some cases, it means the PEN decree will be lifted. We don't have hard figures, but will try to get some.)

- improving prison conditions + prisoner treatment. This is at least underway, spurred on by the impending IACHR visit. Again, Tex said it's "apple-polishing" to get the house in order for the outside world to inspect. But he fears that they really are beginning to do things

P.S. - By citing some positive things that are in the word or actually underway, Tet said he didn't mean that all is well - he noted, for example, that he is getting more & more info about Landmine Camps + detention centers - both urban & rural - We'll get a detailed report on the this coming week.
